ANNUAL CPNI CERTIFICATIONS DUE MARCH 1, 2010

Filing of 2009 Annual Customer Proprietary Network Information (CPNI)
Certifications

EB Docket No. 06-36

Telecommunications carriers and interconnected VoIP providers must file annual reports certifying their compliance with the Commission's rules protecting Customer Proprietary Network Information (CPNI). CPNI includes some of the most sensitive personal information that carriers have about their customers as a result of their business relationship (e.g., phone numbers called; the frequency, duration, and timing of such calls; and any services purchased by the consumer, such as call waiting). In prior years, many companies have failed to file, or have filed certificates that failed to comply with our rules in material respects. Failure to file a timely and complete certification calls into question whether a company has properly complied with the rules requiring it to protect its customers' sensitive information. As a result, the Commission has initiated enforcement action against a large number of non-compliant companies to ensure adequate consumer protection and future compliance with these important regulatory requirements.

In order to promote more widespread compliance for the next round of certifications, the FCC's Enforcement Bureau is issuing this Enforcement Advisory, No. 2010-01, to remind companies of their obligations and to provide guidance on how to prepare a certification that will comply with the Commission's rules.¹

We expect that this Advisory will lead to greater compliance with the rules. At the same time, however, we emphasize that the CPNI rules provide important consumer protections and that we intend to continue to strictly enforce them.

Companies are also reminded that failure to comply with the CPNI rules, including the annual certification requirement, may subject them to enforcement action, including monetary forfeitures of up to $150,000 for each violation or each day of a continuing violation, up to a maximum of $1,500,000.² In this regard, false statements or misrepresentations to the Commission may be punishable by fine or imprisonment under Title 18 of the U.S. Code.

1 By this Enforcement Advisory, the FCC's Enforcement Bureau highlights certain obligations under the CPNI rules. Failure to receive this notice does not absolve a provider of the obligation to meet the requirements of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, or the Commission's rules and orders. Companies should read the full text of the relevant CPNI rules at 47 C.F.R. § 64.2001 et seq.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

The following frequently asked questions are addressed in this Enforcement Advisory:

$ What are the CPNI rules, and where can I find them?

$ Who is required to file?

$ Is there an exemption for small companies?

$ What must be included in the filing?

$ When are companies required to file the annual certification?

$ Is this the same as my form 499 filing or my USF filing?

$ What format should I use for my CPNI certification?

$ How do I file the CPNI certification?

$ What if I have questions?

What are the CPNI rules, and where can I find them?

Protection of CPNI is a fundamental obligation under section 222 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (Act). Consumers are understandably concerned about the security of the sensitive, personal data they provide to their service providers. In recognition of these concerns, the Commission has issued rules requiring carriers and interconnected VoIP providers to establish and maintain systems designed to ensure that they adequately protect their subscribers' CPNI. Those rules also require that all companies subject to the CPNI rules file an annual certification documenting their compliance with the rules, and documenting any complaints or problems. Companies must file these certifications with the Commission on or before March 1 each year.

The CPNI rules are found at 47 C.F.R. § 64.2001 et seq. A copy of the current version of the certification portion of the rules is attached to this Enforcement Advisory. The attached version of the rules is current as of this date. In the future, to ensure that you are aware of any changes to the rules, you are advised always to check the current version of the Code of Federal Regulations, which can be found at the Government Printing Office website, here:

<http://www.gpoaccess.gov/CFR/>.

Who is required to file?

Telecommunications carriers and interconnected VoIP providers must file a CPNI certification each year.

$ A "telecommunications carrier" is "any provider of telecommunications services," except an aggregator.¹

47 U.S.C § 153(44). Telecommunications service is defined in the Communications Act as "the offering of telecommunications for a fee directly to the public, or to such classes of users as to be effectively available directly to the public, regardless of the facilities used." 47 U.S.C. § 153(46).

$ Some examples of "telecommunications carriers" that must file an annual certification are: local exchange carriers (LECs) (including incumbent LECs, rural LECs and competitive LECs), interexchange carriers, paging providers, commercial mobile radio services providers, resellers, prepaid telecommunications providers, and calling card providers. This list is not exhaustive.

$ "Interconnected VoIP providers" are companies that provide a service that: "(1) enables real-time, two-way voice communications; (2) requires a broadband connection from the user's location; (3) requires Internet protocol-compatible customer premises equipment (CPE); and (4) permits users generally to receive calls that originate on the public switched telephone network and terminate calls to the public switched network." 47 C.F.R. § 9.3.

Is there an exemption for small companies?

No, there is no exemption for small companies. Section 64.2009(e) - the annual certification filing requirement - applies regardless of the size of the company.

What must be included in the filing?

The certification must include all of the elements listed below:

$ an officer of the company must sign the compliance certificate;

$ the officer must state in the certification that he or she has personal knowledge that the company has established operating procedures that are adequate to ensure compliance with the CPNI rules;

$ the company must provide a written statement accompanying the certification explaining how its operating procedures ensure that it is or is not in compliance with the CPNI rules;

$ the company must include an explanation of any actions taken against data brokers; and

$ the company must include a summary of all consumer complaints received in the prior year concerning unauthorized release of CPNI.

In reviewing prior years' filings, we have found a number of recurring deficiencies. In particular, many companies:

(1) fail to have the officer signing the certification affirmatively state that he or she has personal knowledge that the company has established operating procedures that are adequate to ensure compliance;

(2) fail to provide a statement accompanying the certification explaining how their operating procedures ensure that they are or are not in compliance with the rules. Simply stating that the company has adopted operating procedures without explaining how compliance is being achieved does not satisfy this requirement;

(3) fail to state clearly whether any actions were taken against data brokers in the prior year (if there were no such actions, the company should include an affirmative statement of that fact, in order to make clear that it has provided the required information); and

(4) fail to state clearly whether any customer complaints were received in the prior year concerning the unauthorized release of CPNI (if there were no such complaints, the company should include an affirmative statement of that fact, in order to make clear that it has provided the required information).

In order to help companies ensure that their certifications contain all of the required information, we are providing a suggested template, attached to this Enforcement Advisory.

When must my company file the annual certification?

The filing for 2009 is due no sooner than January 1, 2010, but no later than, March 1, 2010. You may not file before January 1, 2010, because your certification must contain data pertaining to the entire previous calendar year.

Certifications filed before January 1, 2010 do not comply with the rules. If you filed too soon, you must re-file by March 1 with a new certification that covers the entire calendar year 2009.

If you filed after January 1, 2010, we recommend that you review your certification to ensure that it complies with all the necessary information (including the required attachments and explanations) and refile if needed.

Is this the same as my form 499 filing or my USF filing?

No, the annual CPNI certification filing is different from form 499 filings or USF filings.

What format should I use for my CPNI certification?

A suggested template is attached to this Enforcement Advisory. See Attachment 2. This template was designed to ensure that companies will be in compliance with the annual certification filing requirement of 47 C.F.R. § 64.2009(e) if they complete it fully and accurately. Use of this template is not mandatory, and companies may use any format that fulfills the requirements of the rule. If you elect to use the suggested template, we encourage you to review the template carefully and to ensure that all fields are fully completed before submission.

How do I file the CPNI certification?
